SCHOOLS TO KEEP BOYS IN COUNTRY

Should Make Rural Life More Attractive and Profitable Say Instructors at Annual Teachers' Institute.

That the time has come for advanced ideas in the management of the public schools of today, and particularly the rural schools, is the trend of the arguments presented by the lecturers now here to address Adams County's teachers in their annual institute sessions.

This morning Prof. L. H. Dennis, of Harrisburg, who is connected with the department having in charge the teaching of agriculture spoke on "The Trend of Modern Education" and pointed out with some emphasis that it is the part of the public schools to prevent the movement of the rural people to the cities and that the only way to do this is to make the life in the country both more enjoyable and more profitable.

With the co-operation of the church and the various fraternal organizations, Prof. Dennis said, the schools could do much toward making life more pleasant. "The boy or girl of the country," he said, "has just as much right to the culture and refinement which goes with fine school buildings and equipment as have the scholars in the town and cities."

He then gave a number of suggestions among which was one for the enlargement of the school curriculum, giving the pupils of today more than the old "three Rs" and a little less of the fourth R—the rod. The papers, magazines, music, and other things should be provided for those whose tastes run in these lines and the others who will soon acquire the desire for these things.

Dr. S. D. Fess, in his opening address Monday afternoon, also followed this line of argument with respect to the teaching of history. The old system of memorizing a lot of events which had no significance to the pupil is a thing of the past and a more pleasant study in which the significance of each event is to be brought out was recommended. In all lines more modern methods were urged and the various instructors are bringing before the teachers of Adams County the necessity of putting into play up to date ideas. The school teacher who works for the dollar without thought of bettering his or her school is said to be rapidly becoming a thing of the past in view of these demands for real effective work on their part.

Dr. Fess' lecture on "Jean Valjean" was heard Monday evening by a large audience who enjoyed it greatly.

SHOT FINE BUCKS

Arendtsville Hunting Club Secures Fine Deer. Tame Does.

The Arendtsville Hunting Club reports fine success. Raymond Nary shot a thirteen prong 150 pound buck. Charles Eicholtz a seven prong buck, weighing 175 pounds while the third was killed by Carmen Crum, had eight prongs and weighed 200 pounds, the largest deer shot on the mountain for some time.

Frank E. Cremer, the florist, a member of the Cashtown Hunting Club, who left for the camp in the South Mountain last Thursday, shot a fine buck Saturday afternoon, the second day of the deer season. This is the second buck Mr. Cremer brought down, having shot one two years ago at nearly the same place. Does are numerous this season, and so tame that they come near the camps.

George Staley, Mont Alto, killed a 6-prong, 128 pound buck close to the Pearl of the Park, about 10 o'clock Monday morning.

Norris Stull, a member of the Sports club, shot a spike buck at noon Monday, along the Pure Oil pipe line, mile east of Glen Furney.

Jacob Martin, a young Rouzerville hunter, with the Monterey Club, shot a 6 prong buck Saturday.

Many hunters wear bright red caps and red jersey or patches of red over their shoulders so that they may be distinguished by other hunters.

It has frequently happened that hunters have shot at moving bodies in the bushes without waiting to determine definitely whether they are deer or men. The adoption of the red caps and shoulder covering is to prevent such mistakes this season.

SATURDAY, November 23d, a $1 excursion to Harrisburg. Train leaves Gettysburg 9.45 Biglerville 9.57; Bendersville 10.30. Returning leaves Harrisburg 11.00. Returning Gettysburg vs. Bucknell at Island Park. Advertisement.

THERE will be an oyster supper and sale of fancy articles and refreshments Saturday afternoon and evening in Presbyterian Chapel, Hagerstown. Come and bring your friends. Advertisement.

FOUND DEAD AT SIDE OF ROAD

Well Known Resident of Eastern End of the County Meets Sudden Death. Widely Known as Building Contractor.

The dead body of Joseph Elder was found at the side of the road near a field, a short distance from his home, about a mile from Abbottstown, Saturday afternoon.

The body was observed by Joseph Grim, who was passing that way, and he summoned Dr. Wilson Hollinger, of Abbottstown, who, upon examination, found that the man's death was the result of a stroke of apoplexy.

Mr. Elder was seemingly in the best of health Saturday morning, and did not complain as he left the house for the field that afternoon.

He was a son of the late William Elder, of Berwick township, and was born 53 years ago. He was a building contractor, and as such was well known throughout Adams County.

He was married to a daughter of the late Rev. Peter Brown, and the widow survives, together with the following children, Raymond, of Toledo, Ohio; Francis, of York; Charles, Lloyd, Nannie and Mary Elder, at home. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Nancy Elder, of Abbottstown; a brother, Charles Elder, and a sister, Mrs. Resh, of Lancaster county.

Funeral Wednesday, Nov. 21, high mass of requiem in the Paradise church at 9 a. m.

SEVEN HOURS

Musical Play to be Produced in the Wizard Tuesday Evening.

A telegram from the management of the Grand Opera House Pottstown, says "Seven Hours in New York played here last night to good house. Gave splendid satisfaction. A better pleased audience never left my house. Chorus fine. Scenery and costumes. Can cheerfully recommend it."

Although the musical play "Seven Hours in New York" has enjoyed but a brief existence, it bids fair to outstrip many of its older and better known rivals in the race for popular favor. The new piece is said to abound in tuneful, tinkling melodies, pretty faces, beautiful scenery, and last but not least, a light, really consistent plot, interpreted by a large company and chorus of singing and dancing comedians and comedienne. This big company will be seen at the Wizard Theatre this evening. Advertisement.

Teams from the Eagle copper mines are used for the work of grading.

It is expected that the grading and probably the laying of the ties will be completed in a month, after which the poles to carry the wires will be erected.

HEAVY LOSS FROM THE HOG CHOLERA

Adams County Farmers Report Heavy Losses as a Result of the Ravages of the Disease in the Western End.

Hog cholera has broken out in the western end of the county with much virulence, according to Dr. E. D. Hudson who is conducting a vigorous campaign to stamp out the disease and abate the heavy losses which are being suffered by the farmers of Liberty township and nearby.

The disease is said to have come into this county from Frederick county, Maryland, a number of farmers just across the line reporting their animals suffering from the disease and many losses being tallied. It is claimed that Maryland is not as energetic in stamping out the disease as is this state and as a result Adams County farmers must suffer. David A. Guise has lost twenty five head of hogs and Judge White a number of valuable animals.

Across the line losses are reported by Vincent Eckenrode, William Baker, Fraley Brothers and on the Welty, Stokes and Beam farms, at the last place twenty six hogs falling victims.

To stamp out the infection on this side of the line Dr. Hudson placed a quarantine on Monday and is now vaccinating generally. He believes that if reasonable similar assistance were given by Maryland authorities the disease could be abated. A suggestion to farmers which may prove of value is that they kill or sell uninfected hogs as soon as possible and thus avoid probable loss later on.

HAPPENINGS IN AND ABOUT TOWN

Brief Items Telling of News Happenings of Interest in Gettysburg and Nearby. Cemetery Dedication Anniversary.

Forty nine years ago today Abraham Lincoln delivered his immortal address upon the dedication of the Soldiers' National Cemetery.

Dr. Greene's lecture on "America and the Moslems" at the Seminary on Monday evening was heard by an interested audience which completely filled the chapel. The lecturer has spent over half a century living in Mohammedan lands.

The houses under construction on West street, owned by Irvin Kelly, are nearing completion and have been rented. Gettysburg's new houses all seem to find tenants even before they are finished.

Adams County's farmers report that the corn crop is about all husked and stored away. The weather was ideal for the work and in striking contrast to that with which they had to contend several years ago.

"What happened to Jennie Bree" seems to be mystifying the people of the town who have seen the posters with the legend in numerous town windows for some days past. We shall see.

The supports were removed on Monday from under the concrete bridge at The Tiber on North Washington street. The bridge has been in use for some weeks and is giving general satisfaction. It now stands entirely completed.

The residence of Mrs. John N. Bailey, Sr., on North Washington street has been repainted and a new metal roof has also been placed on the house.

Florists report the chrysanthemum season nearing its close. The flowers this year have been unusually pretty and very plentiful though they brought good prices during the entire season. Gettysburg's flower lovers have raised some "mums" which were fully up to the highly cultivated hot house varieties.

A general scramble for post office appointments is reported from numerous neighboring towns. The matter in Gettysburg seems to be occupying the attention of many though little actual work has been done here. A number of candidates are said to be in the field, the federal building adding its charms to that of a substantial salary.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Duncan, of Lincoln avenue, spent Monday in Baltimore.

Mrs. Donald P. McPherson has returned to her home on Carlisle street after an absence of several weeks.

Mrs. Keith spent the day in Baltimore.

Mrs. Harry Trostle has returned home after spending several days with friends in Shippensburg.

TEACHERS' MEETING

Germany Township Teachers would Purchase Flags for Schools.

The first meeting of the teachers of Germany township was held on Saturday evening at Ash Grove School with Mervin Wintrobe presiding. Four of the five teachers were present and W. D. Sheely, a Union township teacher, also took part in the discussions. It was decided that the collections taken at the meetings during the year be used toward the purchase of American flags for the various schools of the township. An entertainment program by the pupils of the school was much enjoyed and the following topic was discussed: "What more can the rural schools do for the boy and girl than they are doing at present?" Various suggestions were made and a number of plans for school betterment and greater efficiency were presented.

DAVID GARRICK

Wednesday evening's Institute attraction will be "David Garrick", played by Clifton Mallory and company. Of the play the Geneva, New York, Times says: "Smith Opera House was packed from orchestra rail to gallery last evening to witness the production of David Garrick by Clifton Mallory. From the hearty rounds of applause that repeatedly arose from the audience it was evident that they were pleased with the production. Not only did the production make a favorable impression on the general auditors, but it also appealed to Manager Hardison of the theatre sufficiently for him to make arrangements for a repetition."—Advertisement.

MONASTIR TAKEN BY SERBIANS

The Fortress Surrenders After Hard Fighting.

50,000 MEN ARE CAPTURED

Bulgars' First Attack on Forts Guarding Constantinople Is Repelled by Turks.

Belgrade, Serbia, Nov. 19.—The Turkish fortress of Monastir surrendered to the Serbian troops. Fifty thousand Turkish soldiers and three generals laid down their arms.

Monastir had been surrounded by Serbian troops for several days, while Greek troops coming from the south had cut off the Turkish line of retreat to Ochrida.

On Saturday the Serbian troops, after desperate fighting, succeeded in capturing two important heights commanding the city. They then advanced through the morasses upon the inner fortifications, which have surrendered.

Monastir is the headquarters of the Sixth Turkish army corps, commanded by Fethi Pasha, but many other Turkish troops, fleeing from surrounding towns which had been captured by the Serbians, concentrated there.

Djavid Pasha, the commander of the Seventh Turkish army corps, went there with many of his soldiers after the fall of Uskup to the Serbians.

It was thought that the Turkish troops would be able to withstand a lengthy siege in Monastir, but it is evident that the army was totally disorganized and lacked provisions. Many of the soldiers were reservists only recently called to the colors.

BULGARS' ATTACK FAILS

Assault on Tchatalja Forts Repulsed
by Turkish Troops.

London, Nov. 19.—The first Bulgarian attack on the Turkish line of fortifications defending Constantinople at Tchatalja has failed.

The whole of the Bulgarian army was engaged. Every available man was moved to the front from the Bulgarian forces investing Adrianople, where they were relieved by Serbian troops.

The Bulgarians with all their artillery began their advance upon the Tchatalja fortifications on Saturday and continued the bombardment of the works throughout Sunday. They, however, found the Turkish positions so strong that they could make no impression on them, and for the moment at least the attempt has been given up, the firing, according to a dispatch from Constantinople, having ceased.

Observers who have been to the Turkish front agree that the capture of the Tchatalja lines must prove a task of tremendous difficulty.

The days the Bulgarian troops were compelled to use for the bringing up of guns, ammunition and reinforcements were utilized by the Turks to entrench themselves and place their guns in position, giving them a distinct advantage over the attackers. The Turkish soldiers, too, who had been so shaken by their previous defeats, appear to have been steadied, and thus far have made a most determined stand.

Military experts at Constantinople are inclined to think the Bulgarian attack was for the purpose of "feeling out" the Turkish position with artillery and reconnoitering bodies of infantry, rather than a general attack.

The Bulgarian troops made their main attack to the east of Tchatalja, aiming to break through at the point where the railway to Constantinople makes a loop. The strong forts, the marshes and the guns of the Turkish warships had evidently discouraged them from making an attempt to turn either flank of the Turkish lines.

Should the Bulgarians be successful in their effort to break through the Turkish left centre, Nazim Pasha's Ottoman army will be pushed back to the northeast and its retirement upon the capital will be cut off.

The Turks seem to have no hope of rolling back the Bulgarian forces, but if they succeed in holding the line of Tchatalja, both the military and diplomatic situation will undergo a marked change, for a long defense of the front will probably compel the Bulgarians to enter into negotiations without capturing the Turkish capital.

Foreign marines are being placed about the embassies and consulates in Constantinople for the protection of the lives of foreigners. An international army of marines and bluejack-ets is being spread over the quarter where the foreigners are expected to take refuge.

A detachment of 10 British bluejackets has been sent by the British cruiser Welmouth to guard the United States embassy, as the American station ship Scorpion has been allotted to duty on the upper Bosphorus, and the American cruisers are not expected to arrive at Constantinople before the end of the month.

ASKS AGAIN FOR ARMISTICE

Turkey Makes Another Appeal For a Cessation of Hostilities.

London, Nov. 19.—The Ottoman government made a fresh appeal this time through the Russian ambasador at Constantinople, for the cessation of hostilities, according to a news agency dispatch received here from the Turkish capital.

A liberal banking of sheds on the north side will prove a boon to the cows when the cold weather comes.

At this season of the year with the coming of the fall rains, a dry shelter should be provided for the sheep.

The value of livestock on the farm for turning low-priced products into good money has never been thorowly understood.

GIANT SHIP TRUST NEARS COMPLETION

London Combination Will Girdle
the World.

London, Nov. 19.—It was circum-stantially stated in financial circles in London that preliminary negotiations had been completed toward the formation of the greatest shipping combination the world has ever seen, which in point of tonnage, capitalization and resources would completely dwarf Pierpont Morgan's International Mercantile Marine.

The companies pooling interests are the Cunard, Peninsular & Oriental
the Royal Mail Steam Packet company, the British India Steam Navigation company and Furness, Withy & Co.

The Cunard line has a capital of $10,000,000 and a fleet of thirty-one steamships, including the Lusitania and Mauretania. The Peninsular & Oriental, the most famous of the lines in the eastern and Australian trade, has a capital of $17,500,000 and a fleet of sixty-four ships. The British India Steam Navigation company has a capital of $8,500,000 and a fleet of 129 steamers.

The Royal Mail Steam Packet company, which recently absorbed the Union Castle company, the premier South African line, and the Pacific Steamship company, of South America, has a capital of $60,000,000 and a fleet of 129 steamships. The Furness, Withy & Co. has a capital of $17,500,000 and sixty-three steamships.

These figures represent only the par-value of stock market, the value at any moment being enormously greater. The genius of the combination is Sir Owen Phillips, who only in the last few years burst into prominence and made himself the greatest shipping magnate in the world.

volvers in Bay State.

Housekeeping Is Not the Task It Used to Be

MODERN invention has done away with much of the hard work. For instance, the cleaning and polishing of hardwood floors, the dusting of moldings, the tops of high furniture, the stairs, under the radiator, etc. These back-breaking tasks are now made easy with the

O-Cedar Mop

Polish

With it you can dust, clean and polish a hardwood floor in the time it formerly took you to get ready to do it.

Besides, you do not have to get down on your hands and knees to dust under the bed or other hard-to-get-at places, or to stand on a chair to dust the top of the high furniture. All of the hard work is now made easy with the O-Cedar Polish Mop. It gathers all the dust or dirt from everywhere and holds it. The mop is easily cleaned by washing and then renewed by pouring on a few drops of O-Cedar Polish.

Try It at Our Risk Try it two whole days with no risk. If you do not find it satisfactory in every respect we will return your money. The price is only $1.50 and it will save its price many times over in a short time.

BATH TUB TRUST MUST DISSOLVE

Supreme Court Upholds Maryland Decision.

LIMITS PATENT RIGHTS

Declares Restrictive "License Agreement" Infringes Anti-Trust Law. Victory For Government.

Washington, Nov. 19.—The supreme court of the United States delivered a death blow at violations of the Sherman anti-trust law under the cloak of the protection of the patent laws.

It annulled as invalid "license agreements" which held manufacturers of sanitary enameled ironware together in the combination known as the "bath tub trust."

Justice McKenna delivered the unanimous opinion of the court. He said that rights conferred by patents were extensive, but did not give a universal license against prohibitions of the Sherman law. He said there was nothing in the "mimeograph case" of last year which contravened the views he was expressing.

The decision is the culmination of the fight against the enameled ware manufacturers begun in the district court of Maryland, in which it was charged that the fifty defendants named had entered into a combination to restrain interstate trade in sanitary enameled iron ware and had attempted to monopolize that trade. Sixteen of the defendants were corporations.

One of the individual defendants was Edwin L. Wayman, with whom the corporate defendants and their officials were charged with having entered into illegal agreements, in effect licenses, for the use of a patented enameled tool. Wayman was to refund part of the license fee if the manufacturers had not violated any conditions of the agreement, among these conditions being one that they would not sell to any jobber who did not sign a contract not to buy from any one other than the corporate defendants; and another that they would not sell at a lower price or on more attractive terms than those named in a schedule of prices attached to the agreement.

The lower court held that the agreements destroyed competition and fixed prices in violation of law, and furthermore, that the patent on the tool did not make the agreements lawful.

Justice McKenna announced the decision, which marks an epoch in anti-trust decisions, because it sustains the government's contention that a violation of the Sherman law could not be concealed behind the patent laws.

The decision of the lower court was upheld throughout as to the main defendants and the Colwell Lead company, which claimed it was not engaged in interstate commerce.

Justice McKenna's decision upheld that of the lower courts.

"The agreements," he said, "clearly transcended what was necessary to protect the use of the patent or the monopoly which the law conferred upon it. They accomplished a restraint of trade condemned by the Sherman law."

STOLEN SILVER FOUND

While Getting Load of Rock, Teamster Uncovers Treasure.

Bar Harbor, Me., Nov. 19.—A large amount of solid silver tableware, that had been stolen from George W. Vandorff's summer residence in this city eighteen years ago, was found hidden in the rocks at the base of a cliff by Simon Violette, a teamster.

Violette went to the cliff for a load of rock and in handling the stone he came upon the silverware.

It is worth $1000 or more and is part of plunder valued at many thousands of dollars stolen from the Vandorff residence. A large sum of money and much valuable jewelry was never recovered.

SLAYS SISTER WITH AN AXE

Wyoming Woman Murdered in Presence of Children.

Rawlins, Wyo., Nov. 19.—In the presence of her six little children, Mrs. Frank Ryder was beheaded by her brother, Melvin Davis, a twenty-two-year-old miner, who was lodged in jail here.

The pathetic appeals of the children for their mother's life failed to stay the hand of the murderer, and as the woman fell with her head almost chopped from the trunk, one of the babies fell across the body and began crying piteously.

Davis was enraged because Mrs. Ryder complained to their mother that he had abused her. He chased her with an axe and overtook her just as she reached the children.

"Oh, Uncle Mel, don't hurt mamma; she didn't hurt you!" rang not the pathetic appeal of the children, but the frenzied man did not heed.

Davis fled, but was later captured by a posse.

FALL DOWNSTAIRS KILLS

Mrs. Robinson carried a lighted lamp in her hand and this was broken, setting fire to the house. Her husband extinguished the flames and carried his dying wife out of the place. She died several hours later.

WILSONS LANDS AT BERMUDA

Receives Illuminated Address From Officials.

Hamilton, Bermuda, Nov. 19.—President-elect Woodrow Wilson and his family landed here from the steamship Bermudian. All are well.

The Corporation of the City of Hamilton presented an illuminated address of welcome to the American, and the governor sent Lieutenant Lawrence, his aide-de-camp, specially to represent him.

The American consul, W. Maxwell Greene, and great crowds greeted the president-elect as he landed.

The city is gayly decorated in honor of the visit of the next president of the United States. The weather is splendid. During the voyage the weather was also good and Mr. Wilson and his family enjoyed the trip exceedingly.

All Bermuda is greatly excited over the sojourn of the president-elect and many proposals have been made to honor him, including sports, entertainments and even a holiday. Bermuda seems much in favor of Mr. Wilson's prospective reduction of the tariff.

When Mr. Wilson set foot on the pier Mayor Wainwright promptly delivered the address of welcome, and the president-elect in reply said that he hoped nothing would disturb the cordiality between Bermuda and the United States during his administration.

U. S. ARRESTS FIVE FOR FRAUD

Victims Mulcted For $1,500,000 in Three Years.

USED MAILS TO DEFAUD

Band Alleged to Have Swindled Small Corporations in Get-Rich-Quick Game.

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 19.—With the arrests in six cities of men alleged by the government to constitute a monumental get-rich-quick chain of swindlers, United States secret service men declare they have brought to the surface an organization that has mulcted small corporations, inventors and promoters of $1,500,000 in the last three years.

The arrests were made as the result of secret indictments returned in Cincinnati by the last United States grand jury.

Those arrested were: F. D. Minyard, at Cleveland, O.; George S. Hannaford, Chicago; H. B. Warren, Rochester, N. Y.; Mason G. Worth, New York; Thomas Fishwick, Boston; A. Bruce Crane, of Newark, N. J.

Indictments were returned against five men, who are alleged to have constituted one link in the chain. The five are Minyard, Hannaford, Fishwick and J. R. Long and J. G. Malcolm, who are said to be in Canada. The other arrests were made on affidavits of government officials.

The three indicted in Cincinnati will be brought to Cincinnati for trial. A federal grand jury at Rochester, it is said, will be empaneled to investigate branches of the alleged swindle, while the grand jury at Buffalo, N. Y., will convene to take up the case.

Much of the evidence which resulted in the indictments it is said was given the grand jury by a woman, Miss Clara Kronage, formerly employed as stenographer by the firm of Minyard, Kessler & Malcolm. The plan of operation, it is charged in the indictment, was for members of the concern to advertise their ability to sell stocks for promoters and inventors. Those who answered the advertisements were told that the stock could not be sold at its true value unless guaranteed by a reliable guaranty company.

The customer then was recommended, it is charged, to George S. Hannaford, who conducted the Chicago Debut company, Hannaford, the indictment states, would guarantee the stock, charging 1 per cent of its par value.

The promoter then would be informed that a purchaser for the entire issue had been found, providing the proposition was found worthy. A charge ranging as high as one-third or sometimes 45 per cent of the par value of the stock would be made for this investigation. Afterwards the promoter was informed that his proposition had proved to be no good and was dropped.

The indictment charges that the proceeds from the two investigations were divided among members of the brokerage concerns and the debutante companies. No effort was made to sell any stock, it declares, and only a perfunctory investigation made of the merits of the different enterprises.

THE MYSTERY OF THE JADE SPEAR

"Mr. Cullen must not be encouraged," he said gently. "He is there now, listening with pardonable curiosity. Well, Sergeant?"

"Presently there came a tremendous peal at his bell, and he hurried to answer it. When he reached the hall, he found the colonel and Mr. Boyne standing together. 'You understand me, Boyne,' the colonel was saying. 'If I catch you lurking about here again after my niece's money-bags, I'll thrash you within an inch of your life; I will, by thunder!' The young man gave the colonel an ugly look, but he had seen the butler, who was standing behind his master, and kept silent. 'Show this fellow out, Cullen,' said the colonel. 'And if he ever calls slam the door in his face.' And with that he stumped back into the library, swearing to himself in a manner that, as the butler declares, gave him the creeps, it was so very imaginative.

"With one thing and another, Cullen was so dumfounded—for he thought that Boyne and Miss Sherrick were as good as engaged already—that he stood in the shadow of the porch watching the young gentleman. Boyne walked down the drive for a hundred yards or so, looked back at the house, and, not seeing the butler, as he supposed, turned off to the left along a path that led towards the fruit gardens. Cullen did not know what to make of it. However, it was none of his business, and at last he went back to his pantry. Sticking out his head, he could see the colonel writing at that desk—the sergeant pointed a finger at a knee-hole table littered with papers that was set in the further of the windows looking out upon the grass plot—and so concluded that he could not have seen Boyne leave the drive, having had his back to it at the time.

"About twenty minutes later Cullen and Mary Thomas, the parlor maid, were in the dining room, setting the table ready for lunch. The room looked out upon the lawn at the front of the house. All of a sudden they heard a shout, and the next moment the colonel rushed by and made across the lawn to the wilderness gate. He had a revolver in his hand, and was loading it as he ran. He dropped two cartridges in his hurry, for I found them myself when I was going over the ground. Cullen had been with him for years; he is an old soldier himself, and at the sight of the revolver he dropped the tray he was holding, climbed out of the window, and set off after his master, who had by then disappeared amongst the shrubberies.

"He is a slow traveler, is the old man, and he reckons that he was not more than half-way across the lawn when he heard a distant scream, which pulled him up in his tracks. It put the fear into him, that scream. He told me that he had seen too much active service not to know the cry that comes from a sudden and mortal wound. It was no surprise to him, therefore, when at last he reached the wicket-gate, to find his master lying dead in the road.

"Above him, tugging at the spear that had killed him, stood Boyne.

"There was no one in sight, and though the road curves at that point he could see it for fifty yards and more either way. He had no doubt in his own mind as to who had done the thing. Boyne must have seen the suspicion in his face, for he jumped back, Cullen says, and stood staring at him as white as a table cloth.

"Why do you look at me like that, Cullen?" he says. "You don't think—"

"If you can explain that away," says Cullen, pointing to the body, "you will be, sir, if you'll forgive me for saying it, a devilish clever man."

"You're mad," says Boyne. "I found him like this."

"And where did you spring from, if I may make so bold?" asked the butler. Very sarcastic he was, he tells me.

"I had been in the upper garden, and as you very well know, Cullen, I wished to avoid the colonel," says the young man. "I came round the back of the house and entered the wilderness at the upper end. I was walking down the center path towards the wicket-gate, when I heard some one scream, and set off running. I could not have been here more than half a minute before you."

"The butler did not argue the matter, but left him standing beside the body, and went to get assistance. On the lawn he met two of the gardeners, and sent them back. I believe he also saw Miss Sherrick near the porch. It was upon those facts, sir, that I arrested Boyne."

"I don't think," said the inspector, shaking his head at him. "I don't think that I should have arrested him, Sergeant Hales."

"It looks very black against him, you must allow."

"Which affects his guilt or innocence neither one way nor the other. Has a doctor examined the body?"

"Yes, sir, and extracted the spear."

"Why did you let him do that?" asked the little man, sharply.

"I knew you would be vexed about it, but it was done while I was out of the house, examining the road and lawn. He was very careful not to handle it more than was necessary, he said; but he had to saw the shaft in two."

"He said that the force used by the thrower must have been very great."

"Very great?"

"Yes, sir, gigantic—that is what he said."

Addington Peace walked to the window and stood there staring out at the elm avenue that awayed softly in the breeze.

"Is the doctor still in the house?" he asked over his shoulder.

"No, sir."

"We have none too much light left. Have you the spear?"

The sergeant opened a side cupboard and drew out two pieces of light-colored wood. The polished surface was dulled by stains that were self-explanatory. The head was broad and flat, formed of the finest jade, microscopically carved. It had been fashioned for eastern ceremony, and not for battle. That was plain enough. Peace returned to the window and examined it with the closest attention. Presently he slipped out a magnifying glass, staring eagerly at a spot on the longer portion of the shaft.

"Do I understand you, Sergeant Hales, that you found Boyne endeavoring to pull out the spear?"

GAVE HIMSELF UP

Conductor in Fatal Wreck Did Not Know He Was Wanted.

Heating that he was wanted by the police on a charge of criminal negligence, William Shibe, the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad conductor who was in charge of the train that plunged into the passenger train of the Western Maryland railroad near Chambersburg about a month ago, walked into the Harrisburg police station Monday night and gave himself up. Shibe will be held by the police until the arrival of the Sheriff of Franklin county when he will be taken to Chambersburg for trial.

Shibe said at the police station that he did not know that he was wanted until he returned from Reading. When he arrived at his boarding house in Harrisburg he was informed that Detective Bach was after him and he at once gave himself up. Shibe said that the wreck did not occur on account of his negligence, for they turned out to the Western Maryland tracks it was a strange road and he left the train in charge of the engineer who was acquainted with the road.

The arrest of Bream was made in a peculiar manner. Sheriff Walker had come to Adams county to arrest W. C. Schein, conductor of the Reading train. He could not locate him and on his way home he fell into conversation with his eldest mate on a Reading train. During their talk the man told the sheriff that his name was Mervin U. Bream. The sheriff had a warrant for this man, who was the engineer of the Reading train, and he him along back to Franklin county.

Bream had been visiting relatives in Adams county and was on his way home when arrested.

Father and Son to Die Unless Governor Intervenes.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 19.—Virginia's court of appeals refused a new trial to Floyd Allen and his son, Claude Swanson Allen, condemned to die on Friday for their part in the murders in Judge Massie's court room at Hillsville last March.

Preparations were immediately made by friends of the doomed men to appeal to Governor Mann for a commutation of their sentences. The governor has already gone over the records in the case, anticipating such a plea for clemency, and it is expected that he will give his decision at once.

The Allens' friends admit that the prospect of his staying the execution of the sentence is meagre.

Judge Keith, of the court of appeals, dismissed the appeal of father and son with a single sentence, declaring the court "found no error in the record and nothing prejudicial to the defendant," the lower court's findings being affirmed.

HOME RULE COMPROMISE

Asquith Gains His Point in Commons by Abandoning First Plan.

London, Nov. 19.—Amicable arrangement of the home rule bill quarrel in the house of commons was brought about when the dispute as to the government method of procedure, which led to such disorder last week, was settled.

The government announced its intention of reaching the end of the bill by a more roundabout means, and the Unionists, having made good their demand for the observance of precedent, raised no objection.

Premier Asquith attributed his change of mind partly to repugnance at a possible recurrence of disorder and partly to a desire not to ignore the appeal of the chair.

The house of commons then, on the motion of the premier, negatived its original financial resolution, the amendment of which by Sir Frederick Banbury in committee led to the trouble. Another resolution will be substituted for it.

The net result of the squabble will be to delay the progress of the home rule bill for ten days.
